

Shem Bitengo from Kisii Kenya
Hired at Rev Group Canada
As Captionist

Full Time

“I’m so thankful for PJC International and the opportunity it gave me to change my life. I found the job opening within a short time of using PJC International and was permanently hired within a space of 2 months. I’m so thankful I was able to find this opportunity.”

Let’s call this scenario “Before PJC International and After PJC International.” Before some job seekers discover PJC International, they spend a lot of time doing largely frustrating—and fruitless—trial-and-error job searches online. After they find PJC International and become members, many say, they get hired for jobs that give them full time work experience.

Here’s Shem Bitengo’s success story, told us. He’d searched for jobs for years, with no luck, before he found PJC International. After he discovered PJC International, he decided to become a member. Not long afterward, he was hired as a part-time captionist while in Kenya where he worked online then later full time when he was relocated to Canada for Rev, a technology company whose global staff of translators and transcriptionists often work from their homes as parttime and full time, all over the world.

Don't get us wrong: even after Shem joined PJC International, job search success didn't happen overnight. Shem worked to take full advantage of the benefits of his PJC membership. For Shem, the result of his targeted search of the PJC database of thousands of positions was a great job that was in line with his career goals.

A Longtime Goal to Shem, who now migrated from Kenya and lives in Ontario, Canada, told us she'd been on the lookout for a job for quite some time. "I have been wanting a job for years now," he wrote, responding to a series of questions PJC International asks successful job seekers.

Like many job seekers, Shem struggled to find the kind of position where he could succeed and thrive. His main hurdle, he said, was that he "was never able to find anything I was qualified to do."

Making the Decision to Join PJC International

An online search for work led Shem to PJC International. "I was doing one of many Internet searches for jobs," he wrote. "I found out about PJC International and decided it couldn't hurt to look."

His decision was driven by his ongoing determination to find true work. But it was tempered by the fact that he'd come up empty in the past, before finding PJC International. "I was so desperate for a job, I would have done anything," Shem said frankly, adding that the price of a PJC International membership USD $28 for RRD fee after being confirmed that I can 100% land a job through PJC seemed like a worthwhile investment. "The cost was low it is only paid once, and I decided that if I didn't find anything after a month, it wasn't that much of a loss."

True Work Convenience Among Job Opportunities on PJC International

Shem's experience looking for work on PJC website stood in stark contrast to his previous online search for work. "The jobs were easy to find and narrow down," he told us. "I PJC could help me find exactly what I wanted without wading through tons of jobs I didn't want."

The search strategies Shem shared may be of use to other job seekers with similar backgrounds. “It was hard finding anything I was qualified to do since I don’t have a college degree,” Shem wrote. “Being able to search and apply online from the comfort of my home made the process much less stressful, and I’m so thankful for that. If I had been forced to go out every day and apply in person, I would not have ever done it.”

Inspiration for Other Job Seekers

“My new job as a captionist means I can work as much or as little as I want,” Shem told us, describing the true work convenience she now enjoys. “Right now I work full-time after building up my typing speed.”

Shem told us she was happy to share his story “to help others know that if I can do it, they can do it.”

She offered glowing reviews of his job at Rev. “I love it,” Shem wrote. “The work is challenging but interesting, and the staff there have been so awesome and friendly. This job is such a blessing I can’t even express it in words.”

Congratulations to Shem—we’re thrilled that he found his new job! Readers, what are your goals in your search for work? Share with us
